Dedication

"It's great to be great, but it's greater to be human."

Abigail Vanburen

And it's even greater to be both. Not only is this man a success in his influential position in this school, but he is also constantly in touch with the student community at HGS. His energetic, friendly, fun, athletic nature is loved by all. Most importantly, he should be recognized for his involvement with the students in our school. With these superior qualities in mind, we would like to dedicate this edition of the Grammarian to our headmaster, Mr. John Messenger.

Jimmy Miller

Jimmy has spent many years at HGS; we used to think that he was a man of few words, but his dry wit and acerbic sarcasm seem to have grown with each passing year. Now when Jimmy speaks, we all listen. He holds strong opinions on politics, sports, women, and history, but unlike many of the members of his class, does not succumb to tears or hysteria in the middle of a heated debate. Neither does Jimmy argue, but states his case rationally. He will certainly be remembered as the best dressed man of our class, his wide collection of colognes are outdone only by his hair. Jimmy often disappears into the park for a lunchtime run to supplement his dedicated regimen at the gym, his athleticism was made evident when he portaged for many of us at Keji. Jimmy has been blessed with a better schedule than the rest of us, a fact that he, in a manner unique to him, never lets us forget. "Oh, wow, you have Physics. What do I have? Dam, a free..." He is fondly regarded as a man, a fast driver, a biting critic, and a dependable friend. We wish you the best.

Eugenia Branchi

"Drink from me and live forever" --Anne Rice, Interview with a Vampire

Genie came to us in grade 9, shy and innocent, with her face behind those luscious locks we all envied. Since then, she has discovered a voice, a loud and distinctive voice. When she is not in the pool synchronized swimming or at school sleeping, she is often found running around in search of her "Peaches". Although devoting most, if not all, of her spare time to her social life, she has managed to maintain a place on the Honour Role (how did you do it!?). Good luck Genie and never forget: flooding showers, peanut butter, juice boxes, footsies in Chem, late nights on the phone, shopping (how must was that shirt?), Backdraft, Threesome, NP rubber ducky (supposedly), earless bunnies, GRIVE, Men 'n Uniform striptease, breaking beds in Boston, and my bed (however did that gum get in your hair?). You'll be helping Santa soon too! Love always, your wondrous psychic beauty, --ML

Other than when she was singing incessantly on the Quebec trip and whining like a puppy, we all liked Eugenia a lot while she was at Grammar. Famous for having clueless boyfriends and for writing tons of poems, she was a member of the exclusive GSDP and was seen at all the dances. She had an amazing ability to completely and utterly embarrass herself (think IF and AN)! Eugenia's white Tempo took many a trip to the store for slushies, Sour Cream & Bacon chips, and ice cream, even in December. Always remember Method Man Tical, Tupac, and Bone, while rollin' wit da homies! You'll always be my hero! --LW

Arvinder Parkash

Arvinder arrived at HGS from Hong Kong in grade 12. Although we only had one year to get to know him, we will always remember his style of dress, which was always neat, and the fact that he never came to class on time. A quiet type, Arvinder was always calm, and managed to stay out of the line of fire when the rest of us began our heated debates. Good luck in the future, wherever it takes you!

David Pickup

David came to us from England this year, brightening the hallways with his candy cane striped Rugby outfit. He soon learned to put up with us, (and dance with us!!). He has proved himself to be extremely outgoing, especially during the Keji trip, where he was lifted through the "web." He also inspired the soccer team with his responsible captaining, achieving the very first warning card of the season for dangerous play within minutes of the first game. He will be remembered for his happy - go - lucky personality, and for being the only one who was able to successfully pick on LW. David plans to continue his studies in Canada. We wish you all the best!

Mimi Li (aka Bubbles)

"Do not use a hatchet to remove a fly from your friend's forehead" --Chinese proverb
"Procrastination, the art in keeping up with yesterday" --Don Marquis

Mimi is another member of our class who joined us in Grade 7. Since then, we have been reminded daily to have more spirit!! Her enthusiasm has indeed been reflected, as she is always the first to volunteer, be it for a Physics demonstration or for a house captain pudding-throwing contest. There is no better example of her spirit than the fact that her signature includes a happy face. She was one of the "German Six," forming her own competitive union with AM, known as the "Ziplock Buddies." We all remember the project in which she spent hours cutting out pictures of apples to illustrate "German Mealtime." This dedication is typical of Mimi, who has played volleyball, soccer, and basketball for the school each year, spent a myriad of hours at the pool, and successfully juggled schoolwork and the responsibility of being Head House Captain. Many of us have been victims of her criticism of our admittedly unhealthy processed-cheese, deep-fried, colour and preservative enhanced "lunches," as her dedication to a healthy lifestyle touched her classmates as well. It is her distinctive laughter and bubbly personality that we will all miss next year, as well as those 12 inch thick lettuce sandwiches, her love of teddy bears, and all of those "hypothetical situations." She plans to pursue physiotherapy, athletic therapy, or sports medicine, and we wish her all the best for the future.

--KK

Never forget the farting bag of leaves, swimming in the lake in early April, earless bunnies, juice packs, footsies, late night heart-to-hearts, breaking into your garage, Backdraft,...the list is endless. I'll love you always. --EB

Allana Monroe

"And maybe some day we will be strangers again, but we met, and we talked, and we laughed, and we cried, and we sang together for a time" --unknown

"You can't play without a full deck of cards" --LG

Allana has done a lot in these past three years. She has added the necessary Bedford aspect of the class, which we could never live without. She will be remembered for many things, but probably most well known for being the Quebec trip's singing entertainment. She has to know the most lyrics of anyone in the world. No less important is her ability to memorize pages of the biology text with Robin and Georgia. Much of her time in school was spent at the back of the class with Laura, Eugenia, Crayola markers and "Turtles." Allana is an amazing person who was a great friend that once in a while could spout words of wisdom, "We're all a little crazy sometimes." You'll never be forgotten, short stuff, so keep it up! --LW

Allana was an almost model civilian; she was loved by all and could make friends even in the untamed streets of Quebec city. Out of school Allana was rarely seen without Laura, Becca, and Val. Not many will forget her or her entertainment at special occasions like Laura's gatherings. Always remember Elastoplast, geekin, and our loves in the styx's. --EB

Karen Liang

"They're weirdos, Fozzie, but they're nice weirdos..." --Fozzie Bear's mother, A Muppet Christmas

"Climb high / Climb far / Your goal the sky / Your aim the star" --inscription on Hopkins Memorial Steps, MA.

Karen sprang up in our hallowed halls in Grade 7; she quickly made her presence known, perhaps because she was, and continues to be, a figure skater compelled to leap about in the hallways. Even with very little sleep (but always with that mug in her hand), she manages to rush from room to room like a helium atom, knocking over books and younger, though not shorter, children. Indeed, when she recounts her latest adventure with strange Commonwealth co-chairs, or the most recent incident with the "moron in the other lane," she speaks as rapidly as she would had she inhaled a large quantity of helium. To further complicate things as only Karen can, she often attempts to clarify her tales with phrases in German or Chinese. As President of the Student Council, Karen has managed to master the ability of being in six places at once, and can still study quite effectively for 'that test'. Academic excellence is the priority, yet Karen has also successfully juggled too many extra-curricular activities, with only occasional lapses into insanity or hysteria. Nothing can't be cured by a brief visit to her favourite coffee-shop on Spring Garden. She is also known to hold her ground, whether in debates against Ian, as Nick Wright's sparring partner, or in floor hockey games. She leaves her nest and the legacy of those baked potato lunches. This multi-faceted personality can laugh until she cries, and cry until she laughs.

Michael Conway

Michael came to Canada with an open mind; sweeping tracts of fertile mind land heaving with anticipation and awaiting to be cultivated by the pleasures, perks, and prominent personalities of Halifax. All this is now responsible for the veritable jungle that bubbles and brims beneath that nobbily brow.

He had the incredible fortune to find himself joining the MacLachlan family, with Mary and Robin opening their home to him with support every step of the way.

When he was first introduced to his class at the Grammar school, he and David Pickup looked at one another and said "they're all mad!" They fitted in just fine.

Michael is especially grateful for the patient tending he received from the staff at school who encouraged the flourishing to take full bloom. He would like to thank Mr Marchand for the thriving vines of winding thought, Mrs Effimov for the bombastic berry bushes, Miss Silva for the lush green of the forest, Dr Chapman for the cascading waterfalls, and Mr Lawson for the frog on a log in the bog. Mr Messenger is of course the sun in Michael's sky, without whom this wonderful opportunity would never have been possible.

Nadia Al-Sharhan

Nadia came to us as an exchange student from Saudi Arabia in grade 12, and added another face to our multi-national community. Since then, her love of partying and her friendly nature have proved to be valuable additions to our class. We will always remember those seaweed snacks, and the fact that she HATES avocados! We are sure she will succeed in whatever she decides to do in the future, and wish her the best of luck.

Nicholas Wilkinson

Nick arrived at HGS in Grade 10, and immediately enlightened our class on the proper way to imitate the Mr. Bean voice. Bean's growly comments have livened up many a Physics or German class. Nick's participation in German class also led to the formation of the chief rival group to the German Keeners' Society. Nick's time management skills have astonished us all; he has given new meaning to the term "extended achievement," both in his work as co-editor of the yearbook and in his challenging academic courses. (Deadlines, deadlines...) He is known for being a very talented creative writer, undefeated in local literary competitions. Nick is always willing to explain difficult mathematical concepts to the rest of us, for the small price of our lunches. Thanks to Nick, C# now carries with it a "once a week" rule. He has shared many coffees with Catherine and Karen, and has disgusted us all by lovingly sprinkling fourteen sugar packets into each one. Nick's stress relieving activities include the bizarre ritual of bouncing his head loudly against his locker. He was once found chasing Ian down the halls, yelling "Binary Pulsars! Binary Pulsars!" To such events, we can only shake our heads and say, "only Nick." His academic success is incredible, his huggable friendliness invaluable. Best of luck next year.

Maya Mukhida (aka Maya papaya, mukhi, chuckles)

We have grown accustomed to Maya's giggles; cheerful and bubbly. Maya always finds something to laugh about. Her dedication to her studies is evident; she also has the enviable knack for memorizing anything from Latin verbs to mathematical equations. She has served on the Student Council as both Prefect and Secretary, and so now knows the most efficient way to create a duty schedule. Her leadership skills have also benefitted the House Captain system. Maya is a very talented athlete who has greatly contributed to the soccer and volleyball teams; she is also one of the very small number of floor hockey enthusiasts in the class. She and Karen formed the Great Scoring Line which terrorized opponents in intramural hockey. Her artistic talent is evident, her work, especially of animals and nature scenes, is simply superb. Her skill at sketching and her helpful personality have proved to be a great asset to her fellow biology classmates. She is also quite fond of Biology, despite having gotten stuck in the mud of the lake at Gitten's Lodge. Maya seems to spend an unusual amount of time in the front foyer of the school (even during her first years at HGS, when she was an Assistant Secretary, a position now defunct), and probably knows more about the comings and goings of the school than the rest of the class. May will be remembered for always having a large number of stray kittens to give away, her curly hair, all those presentations about Spain, and most importantly, her laughter and good nature. Good luck in the future.

Ian Caines

"Fac ilgigratmsr ia merr bnykbud" --Auomynons

Few Grammar School students are as dedicated to the precepts of liberal education as our Ian Caines. If he is encountered in the course of a day, he is most likely to be found doodling a copy of some work of art (he prefers the cubists), or humming and meditating upon the deep inner meaning of some piece of classical music. In the course of his thirteen years at the Grammar School, he has cultivated a broad range of interests. He has been a long term member of the debating society, where he has consistently posed complex philosophical questions about the nature of life, humanity, and reality itself, all the while trying to maintain the society's essential seriousness in the face of other's juvenile behaviour. Ian also prides himself on his talent at playing the recorder, "the most important instrument of all time." Ian's one fault is his weakness in math, because "numbers are just so meaningless, so who cares? It's never going to affect MY life!" This notwithstanding, we all think Ian has a bright future ahead of him; both next year at NSCAD or Julliard, and beyond.

Jennifer Digby

Jennifer has been at HGS for longer than many of our teachers, and can even remember stolen lunches in Prep Two and Winter Carnivals of long ago. Her athletic skills, as well as her height, have made her indispensable as goalkeeper on the soccer team and forward on the basketball team. She has been very active in the Prep School, and it is difficult to say which is stronger, her love for the kids, or theirs for her. She has been seen attempting the walk down our hallowed halls with small children hanging off each leg. Her work in the school also included Student Council, as Vice-President this year and Class Prefect in Grade 11. Jennifer will also be remembered for her interest in nature and peculiar coloured amphibians who occupy the rainforest, and her locker as well. Her environmental awareness has been illustrated by the numerous occasions where she has worn her cabbage hat. The entire school knows when Jen is happy, as she tends to rush around in joy and gleefully throw her classmates around in celebration. She has also proven to be a very sympathetic listener. Her kindness and generosity have made her respected by all. Whether she chooses to attend Simon Fraser, Mount Allison, or anyplace in between, Jennifer will undoubtedly be very successful --KK

Laura Waters

"Take me or leave me, but don't bug me. That's the way I am, that's me, that's it" --J. Carson
"To touch is to heal, to hurt is to steal. If you want to kiss the sky better learn how to kneel."
 --Bono

Even though only part of the school for three shorts years, she has made her mark. Raising fashion consciousness of students and teachers and proscience rallies were her forte. Remember "fashion overrides comfort!" She and the GSDP were social butterflies and often could be seen careening in halls during class or downtown shopping or in the Great Taste. Known for her frank and nonexistent sensitivity, she was counted on for blatant opinions. She could have been a CK spokesperson or Bono's manager, but instead will stay in school for her DVM. Watching X-Files and 90210 was fun and would be defended valiantly against any attackers. Keji will always be remembered, in the rain, as will Quebec and Roch be looked upon fondly. Grammar was entertaining at least. Good luck, see you on E.C, hope you can drive by then.

Michael Tharamangalam

Michael came to our class in Grade 11, and did not seem overly shocked or frightened by our vibrant personalities. Immediately he astonished us with his punctuality. While the rest of us struggled to arrive at home room on time, Michael seemed to have a talent of his own. He is a quiet type who seems content to merely laugh when we argue furiously over the politics of silly little television shows. We appreciate his non-involvement in our screaming matches, though he probably laughs more at us than with us. He has also gained the respect of many for not criticizing some of our more creative lunches. Michael let his hair grow longer and longer last year, he recently surprised us all and re-emerged with a new haircut. It rained a lot during our trip to Quebec in grade 11; many of us will remember both Michael's patience when he accompanied us to far too many shoestores by day and far too many cafes by night, and his rather urgent trip to the Gap to buy socks. Michael's academic determination is quite evident by his decision to study Higher Physics; he is one of only three brave souls who take on this challenge. It has been said that still waters run deep; with Michael that is certainly the case. Best of luck at university.

Nicholas Wright

"All great events hang by a single thread. The clever man takes advantage of everything, and neglects nothing that may give him some added opportunity." --Napoleon

Nick came to HGS in grade 10, and quickly made his mark as resident political scientist. His participation in lively and rather interesting discussions has left no doubt as to the strength of his views on politics, sports, and certain warm and sunny television shows. His strong and determined character has carried him through his roles as Captain of the Volleyball Team, House Captain, and delegate to the United Nations and Commonwealth simulations, where he expressed those views we know so well. Nick's athletic versatility is evident from his extensive experience in basketball, volleyball, and golf. We will also remember Nick for being tall and having to lift many of us through the Magic Spider Web at Keji. We wish him luck in the future.

Karina Jsechutz

"Here on the pulse of this new day / You may have the grace to look up and out / And into your sister's eyes and into / your brother's face, your country / and say simply / very simply with hope / Good morning." --Maya Angelou

Karina slipped quietly into our class in grade 7. From the beginning it became obvious that she had the ability to either refrain from hysterical and often ridiculous argument, or actually make nice, rational, gentle, and objective statements. In a class where loud, intense, and emotional debates are quite common, this is a unique characteristic. She has observed while the rest of us have stormed out of classrooms and fumed for days. She is the one who can simply "smile and nod" while her good friends somersault about home room. This is not to say that Karina has been an outsider to our class; on the contrary, she has been an active participant in the German Keeners' Society as well as Amnesty International. She also has a great sense of humour, one of her favourite pastimes being switching a certain teacher's keys. She continues her violin studies with the same dedication that has driven her academic excellence. Her patience and good nature will be missed by all. Best of luck in the future!

Headmaster's Message

One of the many noteworthy developments this year at HGS was the increase in school spirit which spoke to both the leadership in the school and the indomitable enthusiasm of all the students. You can't measure the spirit in a school the way you can the results of a mathematics exam but experienced observers can feel it. Schools with a strong spirit are intense engaging communities that see the students both productive in a traditional sense and prepared to take risks in exploring new pursuits. This year most students successfully handled our demanding academic program with poise and purpose and found time as well for a quite incredible range of extra curricular activities.

The rugby team's inaugural season was certainly a highlight. We did not win a single game and yet every game was a triumph. The boys, outweighed and out-manned, played with great dignity and grit with the goal of building on the experience so that we could be competitive next year. The major drama production, "You Can't Take It With You", Mr. Ellis's talent night, Ian Caines's math triumphs, the Grounds for Change initiatives, the contributions of our ESU students David and Michael, the wonderful artwork that flows out of Ms. Wyse and Ms. Silver's art classes, John Manuel's rocket potato launcher, the oh so close senior girls Soccer and Basketball seasons, the demo literary magazine, and the Keji trip are now all etched in our memories and part of our identities.

This happens to be my twentieth year as a Headmaster spanning three different school and in a real sense it was the most fulfilling, not just for what was accomplished over the past year, but for what was established to build on future years. The strategic planning process approved by the Board of Governors provided a clear and exciting blueprint for the future which will carry us on into the new millenium. The graduates- Karen, Ian, Michael T. Georgia, Karina, Maya, Jennifer, Cathrine, Nick, Allana, Eugenia,, Mimi, Jimmy, Nadia, Arvinder, David, Michael C., Laura, and Nicholas W., can be proud because their legacy is a spirit that says we can and we will!
